Col. Robinson Here.

Col. T. B. Robinson, of Garrard, was here yesterday mingling with his many friends. He told a reporter for the Messenger that he was very much encouraged in his chances for landing the Revenue Collectorship, and believed he would succeed Major Wiseman. — Danville Messenger.

Splendid Tobacco Weather.

The last few days of "soft weather" has been a God send to the farmers, and almost continuously night and day, wagons heavily laden with the weed were to be heard crossing the public square headed for the various markets. On Wednesday the vicinity of the depot very much resembled the days before the coming of the loose leaf markets, there was a string of wagons numbering almost fifty waiting their chance to unload at the local warehouse. Fairly good prices have been realized during the past week.

The Woman's Club presented Miss Rawson, of Frankfort, Secretary of the State Library Commission, to the people of Lancaster and Garrard County, Saturday afternoon, in a lecture, her subject being, "Library Extension and the possibilities of a Free Public Library in Lancaster". Miss Rawson was a delightful speaker, of charming personality, added to this was her broad experience in meeting with and advising many communities in Kentucky as to the establishment of public libraries.

Her well given suggestions with clearly defined methods and plans were most convincing of the advantages, to be derived from a public library and the more possibility of Lancaster having a public library assumed the proportions of a near probability.

The woman's Club trust that with the proper action of the people of our town and county, the support of our city council, fiscal court, educational board and the graded school trustees that a public library will in the near future be one of our institutions.

Library Committee.

All trimmed and un-trimmed hats at cost.

The people of Lancaster and Garrard county are in about the same position as the good lady who secured a bird cage without first having procured the bird; they have an appropriation for a government building site, but no site, and no appropriation for a building in the even the site is secured. The government after abandoning the park as the site, then decided upon a part of the Presbyterian church lot and the Dr. Grant property, the deed was submitted to the proper authorities, and we suppose they are now considering the matter, and we have no doubt will in due time accept the title and take over this property.

In the meantime there is no appropriation for the building. We notice every day where appropriations are being asked for government buildings in other Kentucky towns, why not in Lancaster, and we believe that in the due course of time an appropriation will be asked for this place, and when it is asked, no stone will be left unturned until the appropriation is made. Lancaster has a friend in Washington who has never failed to look well to her interests, in fact we do not believe that Senator William O. Bradley has ever turned a deaf ear to the request of any citizen of Garrard county, has never missed an opportunity to do whatever was within his power for his home people and his home town and county, nor do we believe that he will be lacking in perseverance in our behalf in this instance, and we hope, trust and believe that at the proper time he will see to it that Lancaster gets all that is coming to her in the matter of the wherewith to erect a suitable government building.

Notwithstanding the fact that the usages of politics, have sent him back to Kentucky, the people of his native county will ever cherish a warm spot in their hearts for him, will ever remember that he was her favorite son, that he reached the pinnacle of fame, that he held the highest office, save one, within, the gift of the people, and that in the holding of that office he reflected great credit, not only upon himself and his home people, but upon the entire state, and that to use the slang verbiage, "he made good" and that above all, he has ever remembered those people who first honored him, who gave him his political start, and who have looked with pride at his ascension of the ladder of fame, have followed with pleasure the course of his brilliant career and at every upward step of the ladder have pointed proudly to the fact that "he belongs to Garrard."

To those who are skeptical as to Lancaster ever having a public building, we say wait, Senator Bradley has ever had Lancaster in his mind's eye, and we believe he ever will have, and when the time is propitious, we believe he will strike and will strike with unerring aim and the blow will prove successful and will secure for us a sum sufficient to erect a building which will prove a suitable and lasting monument to the memory of Senator William O. Bradley of Garrard county Ky.

We further believe that when Senator Bradley takes this matter up in the upper house, that he will be ably seconded by Hon. Harvey Helm in the lower house, and with this pair for us, who can be against us.

County Supervisors Appointed.

Messrs Thomas Slavin, J. P. Bourne, J. Hyman Ballard, F. B. Marksberry and C. M. Moberly have been appointed tax supervisors for Garrard county to revise the assessors lists of taxable property in the county. These same gentlemen served in a like capacity last year. The law allows them eleven days for their deliberations and their sessions begin on January 1st.

A Splendid Hostelery.

It was freely predicted when the Kengarian hotel was built that it was too large for Lancaster. Quite the contrary is true, scarcely a week passes that Mr. Zimmer is not compelled to either turn guests away or provide outside rooms for them, and travelling men who "make" this place regularly, telephone from adjoining towns to save them a room. Every travelling man who can possibly do so, tried to get here to stay over night because of the splendid accommodations, and it is only a matter of time when an addition to the hotel will become an absolute necessity.

Whitelaw Reid American Ambassador To England Dies At His Home In London Sunday Morning.

Hon. Whitelaw Reid, American Ambassador to Great Britain since 1905 died at his home at Dorchester House, his London residence, Sunday of pulmonary oedema. His remains will be returned to this country for burial as soon as his son, Ogden Reid, who is now on the high seas hastening to his fathers bedside can reach London.

Mr. Reid was in his 76th year. He was born at Xenia O. in 1837. He was one of the best known newspaper men in the country, having for years been editor-in-chief of the New York Tribune. He was ambassador to France from 1882 to 1889 and was engaged in many diplomatic enterprises in behalf of his country.

Mis-trial In Ralston Case.

A jury in the Circuit court failed to agree on a verdict in the case of the Commonwealth against Thomas Ralston charged with the killing of George Finley at Paint Lick, which had engrossed the time of the court for three days. The case was given to the jury last Saturday afternoon and after several hours deliberating they reported to Judge Hardin that they were unable to agree upon a verdict, and there was no probability of their reaching an agreement; the judge requested them to retire to the jury room and deliberate for a short while longer, and upon doing so and still failing of a verdict, as it was Saturday afternoon and the last day of court and it looked as if there was no hope of a verdict, Judge Hardin finally dismissed them.

Messrs Puryear and Robinson were ably assisted in the prosecution by Hon. Henry Jackson of Danville, while Messrs Hamilton, Kaufmann and Judge L. L. Walker appeared for the defendant.

self and his home people, but upon the entire state, and that to use the slang verbiage, "he made good" and that above all, he has ever remembered those people who first honored him, who gave him his political start, and who have looked with pride at his ascension of the ladder of fame, have followed with pleasure the course of his brilliant career and at every upward step of the ladder have pointed proudly to the fact that "he belongs to Garrard."

Remember Us Monday.

Monday is county court day, the last one in the year, and only to days before Christmas day, and an excellent opportunity to remember the Record with a Christmas present in the shape of the dollar you owe us on subscription, or else allowing us to put your name on our list. Come in and see us.

Gone To Georgia.

Messrs George and Fleece Robinson left Saturday for Georgia, where they will remain during the winter months. They purchased a car load of 26 mules in St Louis and shipped ahead of them. The Messrs Robinson together with Mr. G. W. Palmer have a large mule barn and sales stable in Cordele Ga., where they expect to do a thriving business.

Want One Like Ours.

Mr. Webber who drew the plans for the graded school building now under course of construction, was here last week, accompanied by representatives of the Nicholasville school board, where they contemplate erecting a new building. They were very much impressed with our building and expressed their intention of putting up a building as much like it as possible with the means at their command.

No Booze By Mail.

We have heard a good many inquiries as to whether or not with the inauguration of the parcels post that spirituous liquors could be shipped by mail, and to set the mind of the people at rest on this point the department has issued a specific ruling to the effect that they could NOT. The mails have always prohibited the carrying of liquors, and every employee of the postal service is strictly prohibited from and bonded not to carry whisky in any way, shape or form, but to make assurance doubly sure, a new ruling has been made which applies to the parcels post specifically.

"Old Glory" To Float Over New School Building.

A flag pole extending thirty feet above the roof of the new school building has already been erected, and upon the completion of the edifice the Stars and Stripes will be unfurled to the breezes and the American flag will float proudly above Lancaster's new institution of learning. The work is being pushed as rapidly as possible, the brick work on the structure is about completed, the sheathing is on the rafters and the roof itself will soon be completed, and the work may then go on uninterrupted regardless of the weather.

A Busy Saturday Afternoon.

The streets of Lancaster were thronged with people last Saturday afternoon, and all the afternoon and until long after the shades of evening had fallen the good natured crowd remained in town bent on business and pleasure. "Old Santa" arrived on the afternoon train and was at once whisked to his headquarters at Haselden Bros., not however before he had gladdened the hearts of the numerous children who gathered around him, by presenting each one of them with a bag of candy. The sales of the various merchants attracted large crowds and each and all of them rejoiced over a liberal patronage.

Busy Times.

The neighborhood of the depot in Lancaster presents a busy scene these days, and nothing points more truly to the prosperity which the county is enjoying than the air which pervades this locality. The streets are thronged with the farmers wagons, coming in with loads of tobacco and returning laden with coal, flour, salt and great loads of supplies for the winter, wagon loads of turkeys, droves of turkeys and turkeys in every conceivable shape are constantly coming in, to be quickly prepared and shipped to the eastern market; the local tobacco warehouse is prizing and shipping out tobacco at the rate of four cars per week, the stock men thronging about the stock pens, shipping fat cattle and swine for the holiday season, and every where one is impressed with the idea that Lancaster is indeed a thrifty busy place.

Mr. Clay Dunn who drives the mail route from Lancaster to Nicholasville has purchased a handsome light closed carriage for his work, and passengers to and from Nicholasville may now make the trip comfortable.

All changes in advertisements and all matter intended for publication must be in the office by Monday morning in order to appear in next weeks paper.

Deplorable Affair, Two Garrard County Citizens Engage In A Difficulty In Richmond Which Results In Serious Cutting.

The Richmond Climax gives the following meager account of a difficulty which occurred at the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse in Richmond on last Wednesday afternoon, and which is about as near the facts as may be obtained until after the trial.

"At the Farmers Tobacco Warehouse on Wednesday afternoon in a fight between S. H. Estes and Porter Wearan, both of Garrard county, the latter was badly cut, sustaining a severe wound in the breast and a deep gash in the face. There are conflicting reports as to the trouble, but the fact the men had not been friends for some time may have been the real cause of the difficulty. It is claimed by Mr. Estes that Mr. Wearan knocked him down twice before he used his knife on him. Mr. Estes was also cut on the hand in the fray. Wearan was taken to the Gibson Sanitarium, where his wounds were dressed and where he is being well cared for. The wounds were at first thought to be fatal, but the patient bids fair to recover. Mr. Estes had no trouble in giving bond for his appearance here at his trial Friday. It is probable that Wearan's condition will be such that he will not be able to appear at the trial and in that event it will be set for a later day."

Both of the gentlemen are good citizens and have a large number of relatives and friends in this county and the affair is deplored by all. Mr. Estes is suffering from a severe cut in the hand which he received in the melee.

Kenyon "Wet To Dry" Bill Now Under Debate In Senate But Not Likely To Pass At This Session.

The Kenyon bill, similar to the Sheperd bill in the lower house, which would prohibit the shipping of liquor into dry territory, is under debate in the senate this week, but with small probability of reaching a vote before the holidays. The Anti-Saloon League Convention is also in session in Washington this week, and the delegates will do some talk hustling in favor of this bill. Many of the Senators have their coat lapels decorated with a white ribbon, denoting their attitude toward the measure.

Until the Archbald impeachment trial is ended, the Senate will have but an hour and a half a day to devote to discussion of this legislation. After that it will hold the entire field unless some other legislative arrangement is made. If pressed to passage in the Senate this session the bill will then go to the House. If it fails in the Senate it will go over in both branches until next session.

It may be, whether the measure passes the Senate or not, that the rush of appropriation bills will hold it off settlement until the extra session.

The opponents of the bill in the Senate declared that if the bill were made into law it would be declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

The fate of this measure means much to Kentucky. Its passage would be the greatest forward step ever taken in the prohibition cause, would mean a stoppage to the activities of mail order houses in adjoining states shipping liquor into dry territory indiscriminately, to boys of tender years, without, in many cases, the formality of even inquiring into the age of the customer.

County Clerk J. W. Hamilton complains that a great many people appear at his office in quest of marriage license without having the consent of their parents properly prepared, and for the benefit of those who have not reached the age where they can secure a marriage license without the consent of their parents we quote the following extract from the Kentucky Statutes:

We quote from the Kentucky Statutes, page 937 section 2106, which is as follows: "If either of the parties be under twenty one years of age, and not before married no license shall issue without the consent of his or her father, or guardian, or, if there is none, or he is absent from the State, without the consent of his or her mother, personally given or certified in writing to the Clerk over his or her signature, attested by two subscribing witnesses, and proved by the oath of one of them, administered by the Clerk. Where the parties are personally unknown to the Clerk, a license shall not issue until bond, with good surety, in the penalty of One hundred dollars, is given to the Commonwealth, with condition that there is no lawful cause to obstruct the marriage."

Section 2106, is as follows: "No marriage shall be solemnized without a license therefor, issued by the Clerk of the County in which the female resides at the time. But when she is of full age or a widow, and is issued on her application in person, or by writing signed by her, it may be by any County Clerk."

We publish the above in order that applicants under the age of twenty one years may bring the written consent of the father properly signed before two subscribing witnesses who are over twenty years of age, or that the parents may accompany those seeking license, in order to avoid much trouble in the future.

Paint Lick's Handsome New Graded School Building To Be Dedicated Saturday Dec. 28th With Appropriate Exercises.

The good people of the Paint Lick vicinity are about to see their efforts of years crowned with success. For many years they have striven to secure a new and up-to-date school building and to have therein a graded school. Many times they have met with rebuffs, but perseverance overcomes all obstacles, and on Saturday December 28th they will dedicate a handsome new building, a splendid corps of teachers have been employed, and henceforward they are to enjoy educational facilities second to no rural district in Kentucky. The dedication of this building marks a long step forward for education in Garrard county, and we heartily congratulate the splendid and persevering people of Paint Lick upon the final success of their efforts. Eminent educators from all over the state will be present upon the occasion and take part in the dedicatory exercises, which will consist of an instructive and interesting programme. Among the number expected is Dr. J. G. Crabbe of Richmond, President H. G. Cherry of Bowling Green, State Supervisor Prof. T. J. Coates of Frankfort, Hon. McHenry Rhodes High School Supervisor, Hon. J. W. Newman, Commissioner of Agriculture, Hon. Barksdale Hamlett, State Superintendent, Hon. John Noland, Richmond Ky., Prof. J. S. Dickey of Bowling Green, Mrs. Chas. P. Weaver, Louisville, Hon. John B. McFerran, Louisville, Prof. J. W. Ireland, Stanford, Judge Chalkley of Lexington and many others. The programme will be published in full in next week issue of the Record.

Everybody is cordially invited to attend, and all who are interested in the cause of education should make an effort to attend, as the exercises will be well worth your time and trouble, and your presence will be an encouragement to our neighbors in their efforts for better schools. Dinner will be served for all who attend.

Lowney's box candy for Xmas at Zimmer's.

There is not a town anywhere that can boast of a more up-to-date or wide awake set of merchants than Lancaster. They are ever on the alert for some new and novel means of advertising their business, and as quick as an scheme is finished with, they immediately set about enjoining their brain for some new and novel scheme, and they keep the people constantly upon the qui vivos as to "what next".

One merchant advertises to, and actually does, "give away a barrel of money", another gives presents to the first customers entering his store on the opening sale day and still another sends up miniature balloons containing coupons, which are redeemable in merchandise at his store. These inventions to catch trade all prove business getters and attract the people to town and in consequence they enjoy a liberal patronage.

Hustling Business Men All.

There is not a town anywhere that can boast of a more up-to-date or wide awake set of merchants than Lancaster. They are ever on the alert for some new and novel means of advertising their business, and as quick as an scheme is finished with, they immediately set about enjoining their brain for some new and novel scheme, and they keep the people constantly upon the qui vivos as to "what next".

One merchant advertises to, and actually does, "give away a barrel of money", another gives presents to the first customers entering his store on the opening sale day and still another sends up miniature balloons containing coupons, which are redeemable in merchandise at his store. These inventions to catch trade all prove business getters and attract the people to town and in consequence they enjoy a liberal patronage.

Judge Chas. A. Hardin Sets At Rest The Controversy As To The Ownership Of The Park To The Satisfaction Of All Concerned.

When the U. S. Government decided upon the Park in the center of the Public Square as the place for the site of the federal building, and the question of the ownership of the Park, whether it belonged to the town or county, arose, as soon as he had the opportunity to investigate the matter, County Attorney J. E. Robinson came to the conclusion that the Park was public property, and was intended to be utilized for street and all public purposes. He so informed the fiscal court and all of the government representatives who were interested in the matter. However, because of the contention between the town and county as to whom the title was vested in, and the failure to settle the question promptly, the government abandoned the idea of utilizing it, and forthwith made other arrangements, the result of which the people of Lancaster are about equally divided in their opinion as to whether or not this was best, many of them wishing to see the building erected there, while many others were opposed to it.

Meantime a suit was filed to settle the question of ownership; this question was submitted to Judge Hardin last week, and he has handed down an opinion that the Park was public property, dedicated for the purpose of streets and other public uses, and he goes further and decided that it is the duty of the town to maintain this Park. Judge Hardin's decision meets with the approval of all the interested parties, representatives of both town and county, the matter is forever set at rest and no appeal will be taken, everybody being willing to accept Judge Hardin's decision as final in the matter.

The question of "who owns the park" has become a problem along with "who struck Billy Patterson," "how old is Ann" and many other unsolved and knotty questions, but now that the former has been answered, the matter determined for good and all, it now becomes a burning question of what shall we do with it? Shall it remain in its present condition, an eye sore, a blot on our fair landscape, a kennel for stray dogs and a landing place for recalcitrant urchins, or shall we put it to some practical use?

The good ladies of the town recently appeared before the City Council, so we are informed, and asked to be given the supervision of this Park. They have some money at their command, which was raised for the purpose of beautifying the public square, and we understand there is an order upon the books of the city council appropriating a supplementary sum for the purpose of beautifying the park, we have no doubt that the ladies could raise an additional amount, they never yet tried to raise funds and failed, and we are confident that in this instance they would be able to raise a sufficient amount to place the Park in good condition, and we now suggest that the Park be turned over to them, and as we have before said in these columns, they will proceed to make of it "a thing of beauty and a joy forever."

With most complacent smirk,

His Bluff Called.
"So you advertised for your lost

"Yes."
"How did the bluff work?"
"Didn't work at all. Next day this the purse on Hoyalton streets requests the loser to call at his house.'"

"Yes, he tried to; but of course I

"Yes, despite the fact that she lets

The Golden Rule.

Were you ever "down and out"? Did the happy yule tide ever find you with a cheerless hearth, when all about you was comfort and happiness? Did you ever see the time when "Old Santa" failed to make his appearance down your chimney, when the neighbors children were rejoicing over finding full stockings on Christmas and your little ones were without the necessities of life, when through misfortune, sickness or ill luck the joyous season had found you without the making of even a frugal repast? If you have, you know the feeling. Remember that there are those about you who are in just this condition, those who could be made happy by a small portion from your bounty, which you could easily contribute without missing it. Remember that there are about you many little ones who will go to bed in fond anticipation of waking Christmas morning to find that Old Santa has filled their stockings, but who are doomed to disappointment. Remember that in this world, even near about you, there is always someone who is "down and out".

From our abundance let us see that there are no down and outs in Lancaster this Christmas, that there are no cheerless firesides, no little ones to feel disappointed over the failure of Old Santa to visit them. We have been abundantly blessed, and from the abundance of our blessings let us see that none around us suffer, that there is Christmas cheer for all within our gates. "Do unto others as you would have others do unto you".

Boys Corn Club Exhibit Held At Miss Higgins Office And Prizes Awarded

Last Saturday.

The contest as to who was to be the successful competitor in the Garrard county Boys Corn Club was held last Saturday afternoon in the office of the County Superintendent of Schools. Prof. Freeman Gilbert of the Agricultural College at Lexington came over and did the judging, and also gave the boys some interesting facts and instructions in regard to how to cultivate corn successfully. Prof. Gilbert complimented the boys on their efforts and took occasion to say that while the exhibits were not as numerous, yet the quality was among the best he had seen. Many of the boys who entered the contest fell into hard lines, had a bad stand, and many other difficulties which beset older and more experienced farmers, hindered them from making a success of their acre, and a great many of them, feeling that it would be useless, did not make a show of their product.

The prizes were awarded as follows:—Best yield, 1st prize $15.00 offered by Banks Hudson, went to Robert Parsons, whose yield was 115 bushels, or 23 barrels on his acre; second prize, boys saddle by J. R. Mount, Son & Co. Jerome Cotton, 98 bushels; third prize $2.50 in gold, by Banks Hudson, Edwin Scott 86 bushels.

Best 10 ears. 1st prize $5.00 in gold by Banks Hudson, Jerome Cotton; 2nd prize, Hat by H. T. Logan, Tom Reynolds; 3rd $2.50 by Banks Hudson, Robert Parsons.

Best bushel 1st prize, $10.00 in gold by Garrard Milling Co. Jerome Cotton; 2nd, pair shoes by Joseph Mercantile Co. Robert Parsons; 3rd, Bridle by Haselden Bros. Robert Kinnaird.

The efforts of these lads in practical farming are to be commended and might well be emulated to advantage by many of their elders. It is to be hoped that if another efforts is made in this direction that the boys will meet with better success and each and everyone of them may be able to raise a crop worthy of being put on exhibition.

The exhibit of young Robert Parsons is especially worthy of mention, the lad we are informed is but 15 years of age. He is a son of "Squire R. F. Parsons of the Flat Woods country, and his effort was made on the flat wood land, by no means the most fertile or productive land in the county; his particular acre being his own property for which he paid $6.50, but by dint of hard work, the use of fertilizer and a knowledge of farming which would do credit to one of maturer years, he succeeded in producing 23 barrels of corn, and of a very fine quality.

The efforts of these untiring youths in their agricultural venture, and their ultimate success, shows the possibilities of even the poorest of the soil of Garrard county when treated practically.

HIS MISTAKE EXPLAINED.

The gentleman who wore evening clothes and the remnants of a jag at nine o'clock in the morning was clinging to the footboard of a crowded surface car in Chicago. As the car rounded a sharp curve with a jerk the person in the incongruous apparel fell quickly and heavily to the cobblestones. He was picked up by the strong hands of the conductor and about twenty passengers.

"Collision?" he asked in a dignified tone of voice.

"No," said the conductor.

"Off the track?" further questioned the victim of the accident.

"No," said the conductor.

"Well," concluded he of the jag, "if I had known that I wouldn't have got off."—Popular Magazine.

Quite Aware of It.

Percolium (of the Daily Bread)—My dear, you are not only my chief incentive to work but my lifelong inspiration.

Mrs. Percolium—I know I'm your inspiration, all right, Percolium. When ever I mix a metaphor or make a little mistake in my grammar you turn it into a story and get pay for it!

Most Unusual Case.

I used to know a public man—You may not think it true, But when he for an office ran The wires he pulled were few.

Left a Few.

"I suppose," said the disgruntled young man when the producing manager handed back his play, "that you have stolen all my bright ideas."

"Oh, not all of them," the manager gravely replied. "I don't want to get so many bright ideas as to be considered supernatural."

Gossip.

"Some folks were highly excited when they heard the other day that young Charley Softed was caught kissing another man's wife."

"Good gracious! Who was the creature?"

"Don't get excited. It was his mother."

Low Grade of Knowledge.

"Did young Charlie Goldie call on you last night?"

"Yes, he calls almost every night."

"That sounds serious. What sort of young man is he—pretty intelligent?"

"Intelligent! Why, say, he doesn't know enough to embrace an opportunity."

Welcome Arrival.

"I don't think we had better lose any time about calling on our new neighbors," said Mrs. Mainchance.

"Why?" inquired her husband.

"I have watched them unload the moving van and they have a lot of things we will want to borrow."

A Holdup.

"Why did you give that servant such a fine letter of recommendation?" asked one woman.

"I was willing to do anything," replied the other, "to get her to go away peaceably."

One on the Surgeon.

"When I die," remarked Cholly, "I think I'll leave my brain to some prominent surgeon."

"Don't do it," advised Algy. "These practical jokes are bad form; very bad form, old top."

Memorial Services.

In the quiet hours of the closing Lord's Day at the Christian church the Auxiliary held a memorial service for its "lost leader" Mrs. Sarah Yancy. Such a loss has never before confronted the Christian Woman's Board of Mission in Ky., and to the Auxiliary here the blow is doubly strong, for she was a personal friend to almost every woman in our ranks. Such tributes were paid to her as can come only from hearts loving and true, and minds deeply imbued with her worth and Christian courage.

She was the direct inspiration to missionary interest in the life of every woman present, and as the reward to her service for them a renewed zeal and interest was pledged though her life has gone, the light she shed whose brightness was lost while she remained, shall shine on with us forever. Though her lovely face has vanished into Heaven her song and the inspiration of her song is left to us.

Though the messenger has ceased to speak, the King is here to fulfill the tidings she brought. We thank the Father that Mrs. Yancy was ours for so many years. And that through the blessed voice of missions we learned to know her best.

Of her it was said.
Life's race well run.
Life's crown well won.
Life's work well done,
Now cometh rest.

How He Got It.

Joe—How are you, old man?
Arthur—Got a beastly cold, y'know.
Joe—Hard luck, by Jove. Been going out in the cold without your monocle?

Arthur—No. Called on Henery at his house and that wretched dog of his persisted in wagging his tail and creating a draft.

Shifted Responsibility.

"These patent foods are great promoters of domestic tranquility," said young Mrs. Terkins.

"They are great conveniences." "Not only that; whenever Charley starts to complain about the meals I can stop the argument by telling him to write to the manufacturer."

A Trifle Damp.

"How's that lot you bought at Dingledale?"

"I haven't seen it yet."

"No?"

"I'm waiting for it to dry off."

TEMPERED JOY.

GEORGE BAKER

Bronson—You were passing around the cigars yesterday?

Woodson—Yes; new baby at my house.

Bronson—But it wasn't your first baby?

Woodson—No; my fourth. But how did you know?

Bronson—I smoked one of the cigars.

A Doubtful Compliment.

He says she grows prettier every day, Which is complimentary—in part, Though he might be understood to convey She was very plain at the start.

True Economy.

"What is your idea of an economical wife?"

"One who can wear a $200 synthetic pearl necklace with a $500,000 genuine air!"

A Rare Bird.

"Pa, what is a rara avis?"

"A political candidate who has nothing to explain."

BOTH 'PHONES 964.

LEXINGTON, KY., DEC. 7-1912.—Offerings and sales of tobacco on our market this week shows to be 2,293,440 pounds, with a general average on the entire offering of $12.50; ranging from $4. to $28.50

A great many crops have sold this week at an average of $15.00 and upwards, and the market has shown a stronger tendency on practice all grades. The advance on red tobaccos of medium to good quality have been very perceptible, and good to fine color grades of all types has demanded more competition and a general stiffening in prices of this class.

Extra good crops of both the red and color types are not showing so plentiful as a first impression of the crop indicated. We, therefore, have had a better market on this class of tobacco, and probably a further advance may be expected on the extra good and fancy tobaccos.

The Stivers House, one of the houses belonging to this Company, sold this week the $38.00 basket which is the highest price so far obtained at any warehouse on any market for tobacco.

The two sets of buyers are able to keep up with the sales, and sellers need not have any fear in bringing their tobacco to this market but what they may expect prompt sales every day.

The Tobacco Exchange on the market have decided to adjourn sales on December 20th, resuming on January 2-1913.
